

Ladies and Gentleman,

I am pleased to introduce you to our speaker, Maria Marsala, from Elevating Your Business. Maria helps organizations achieve more with less, and more efficiently, too!

An experienced entrepreneur, she entered the business world by selling AVON at age 14, and then hit Wall Street three years later. With fierce determination and keen insights, Maria broke through the glass ceiling and became a bond trader and executive at a time when female executives on Wall Street were as rare as pink diamonds. Her devotion to volunteering predates her zeal for business. Maria has been volunteering since age 10. She has been on several non-profit boards, started non-profits, and has earned several service awards. Maria uses her business savvy and understanding of the non-profit environment to help her clients streamline their operations and accomplish more with much healthier businesses.

So, from Wall Street to our street...get your pens and paper ready for Maria's valuable insights on how you can make your non-profit organizations hum like well-oiled machines.

Ladies and gentleman, please welcome Maria Marsala!
